see separate sheet

VIII. Certain observations on the international application

The following observations on the clarity of the claims, description, and drawings or on the question whether the claims are fully supported by the description, are made:
see separate sheet

Concerning Point V

- 1) The following documents from the search report are cited:
D1: WO 99 09779 A (QUALCOMM INC) 25 February 1999 (1999-02-25)
D2: WO 95 22857 A (MOTOROLA INC) 24 August 1995 (1995-08-24)

Additionally, US-A-5 625 876 mentioned in the description is cited as D3.

- 2) Independent claim 1 relates to a method of operating a telecommunications system in which mobile terminals may communicate with base station transceivers over an air interface, a communication to another terminal being supported in macro diversity by radio links between a plurality of base station transceivers and a mobile terminal.

Such methods are generally known in the art, for example from D2 or D3. A problem with such prior art methods is that it can be necessary to transmit new configuration parameters to each of the current base stations and the mobile terminal. Such a new configuration is not applied immediately, but after a certain pre-determined time. This delay is chosen so that on average the mobile terminal and the base stations will have sufficient time to reconfigure. This has the disadvantage that this time will normally be set conservatively, so the configuration will take longer than average.

The current application overcomes this problem (cf remaining features of claim 1) by waiting before implementation of the configuration change until an acknowledgement has been received from at least one base station transceiver in each of transmitting and receiving communication with the mobile terminal and from the mobile terminal itself.

This is neither known nor derivable from the prior art or its combinations. Claim 1 thus meets the requirements of Articles 33(1) - (4) PCT with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability.

- 3) Claim 9 relates for the apparatus category to method claim 1.

Claim 15 relates to the actual network element responsible for the update in system claim 9.

Claim 16 relates to a method of operating the element of claim 15.

Claim 17 relates to the mobile terminal.

These claims thus also meet the requirements of Articles 33(1) - (4) PCT with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability, essentially for the reasons set out above.

Similarly, owing to their dependencies on claims 1 and 9, dependent claims 2 - 8 and 10 - 14 also meet the requirements of Articles 33(1) - (4) PCT with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability.

Concerning Point VII

- 1) The independent claims should have been put in the two part form recommended by Rule 6.3(b) PCT with a pre-characterising part reflecting the teachings of the closest prior art (eg D2 or D3).
- 2) In order to meet the requirements of Rule 6.2(b) PCT reference signs in parenthesis should be added to the claims. This applies both to the pre-ambles and to the characterising part, and to method claims in as far as they refer to apparatus features.

Concerning Point VIII

- 1) The mention of "spirit" or similar should have been deleted from page 19 of the description (cf. PCT Guidelines PCT/GL/3 III 4.3a).

Moreover, the mention to "incorporated herein by reference" on page 7 should also have been deleted from the description, since it adds nothing to the disclosure (cf. PCT Guidelines C II 4.17) and is thus clearly irrelevant (Rule 9.1(iv) PCT).

INTERNATIONAL PRELIMINARY EXAMINATION REPORT - SEPARATE SHEET

International application No. PCT/EP00/02673

- 2) In order to meet the requirements of Rule 11.13 PCT, the applicant should have filed drawings with type written reference signs. Moreover, parts of figure 3c are hard to read (DPCCH), and should also have been clarified.
